

From the Oil & Gas Journal and Warlick International -- an all-new report with the latest intelligence and forecasts for the leading gas shale basins in North America: The Marcellus, Haynesville, Fayetteville, Woodford and Barnett.

Gas Shale Market Report and Five-Year Forecast – 2010

Highlights of the report:

- Basin-by-basin drilling forecasts for 2010-2014
- Economics currently important to gas shale development
- Latest actions by E&P leaders in each basin
- Important basin metrics for current analysis
- Recent deals by basin
- Critical business intelligence for immediate use

Report Contents

This new report is a management-level evaluation of the Marcellus, Haynesville, Fayetteville, Woodford and Barnett shales in a strategic intelligence summary with current drilling forecasts:

1. Executive Summary
2. Recent Deals: Current acquisitions, divestitures, leasing in each basin
3. E&P Basin Leaders: Activities of Leading E&P Companies in each basin
4. Development Strategies: Successful/unique approaches to field development
5. Basin Metrics and Economics
6. Geological Summary: Review for each basin
7. Regulatory and Environmental: Oversight by State/Federal entities
8. Technology and Services: Review technologies applied in each basin
9. What's Ahead: Expectations, potential changes affecting basin drilling, production and investment
10. Drilling Forecasts: Breakouts by basin for 2010-2014

Your subscription for the Gas Shale Market Report and 5-Year Forecast 2010 includes two editions, Edition #1 is immediately available, Edition #2 (with updated intelligence and forecasts) will be published this fall -- both via download from the Warlick International website.

The cost of the new 2010 Report is $3,850. You may purchase your subscription by Visa or Master Card; just communicate directly to us your details for the transaction.

Hurry and contact Warlick International with your questions or intentions to subscribe. Please Email Trish.Robinson@warlick.net or call 866.577.8520 – order now and put the report to work immediately.

